THE WHY

Why shop for safer period products? Here are the top concerns and where they can be found:

- Plastic: Conventional pads, tampons, menstrual cups, synthetic fabric period panties and reusable pads
- Pesticide residues: Conventional pads, tampons, period panties, and reusable pads made with conventional cotton
- Silver nanoparticles: Conventional period panties
- Fragrance ingredients: Conventional pads, tampons
- Volatile organic compounds (VOCs): Conventional pads and tampons

THE WHAT

Tampons - Look for:

- 100% organic cotton
- Unscented and fragrance-free
- Unbleached or chlorine-free bleach
- Plastic-free applicator or tampons sans applicator
- Plastic-free packaging

Menstrual Cups - Look for:

- 100% medical-grade silicone only (skip other materials)
- Undyed silicone
- Nontoxic cleaning methods for your cup. We recommend boiling it in an open pot of water for 5-10 minutes before using each month, and washing with nontoxic soap and water after each time you empty it.

Period Panties - Look for:

- Organic cotton as the primary material
- Full disclosure of all materials including fabric and treatments. Skip panties that leave you with questions.
- Panties without nanomaterial silver. Some contain silver marketed as unable to leach or migrate; avoid these too.
- Panties without antibacterials or antimicrobials. Sometimes these treatments aren't disclosed in a materials list but can be spotted with marketing terms like "antimicrobial."

Pads + Liners - Look for:

- 100% organic cotton
- Unscented and fragrance-free
- Unbleached or chlorine-free bleach
- Plastic-free packaging

Reusable Pads + Liners - Look for:

- Organic cotton as the primary material
- Panties without antibacterials or antimicrobials (see Period Panties above)
